About

Raised in Arizona by a Contractor father, I learned early to love the art and creation of building. As an Architect, I'm a contributor to the built environment and I take that responsibility very serious by understanding how my decisions and selections effect the environment. I'm also passionate about place specific design and solving complex problems with solutions that inspire and touch the soul. On a personal note, I married the love of my life Sandi and believe my legacy is in my children and the people's lives I impact.
